Preventing Intimate Partner Violence:
Exploring the CDC's IPV Technical Package

Friday, October 27, 2017

10:00-11:30am Pacific | 1:00-2:30pm Eastern

The U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) has developed a suite of technical packages covering child abuse & neglect, intimate partner violence (IPV), sexual violence, youth violence, and suicidal behavior. The packages are designed to help states and communities take advantage of the best available evidence to prevent violence. This webinar will provide an overview of the strategies featured in the IPV Technical Package and highlight examples of how the technical packages are being utilized in the field.

This 90-minute webinar will enable participants to:

1. Describe the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's Technical Package Initiative.
2. Articulate specific features of the Intimate Partner Violence (IPV) Technical Package.
3. Provide examples of how the technical packages are being received and utilized by two state domestic violence coalitions.
4. Inspire discussion about how health and public health-focused organizations and entities can incorporate the IPV Technical Package as well as other CDC technical packages into their work.

Speakers:

Linda L. Dahlberg, Ph.D. Senior Advisor to the Director, Division of Violence Prevention, CDC

Deena Fulton, MPH, Prevention Coordinator at the North Carolina Coalition Against Domestic Violence
