

Clinics Serving Survivors of Human Trafficking:

The following are a list of clinics with specific services for human trafficking survivors.

Here are some helpful phrases for referring a survivor to mental health services:

- “It makes sense that you are feeling this way, and you deserve support.”
- “It’s understandable that you are having upsetting thoughts. It can be helpful to have a space to talk about them.”
- “It sounds like you’ve been dealing with a lot of difficult things. People who have been through similar experiences have found it useful to work with “X” Agency. We can talk about this a little more, and if you decide you are interested, I can help get you connected.”
